The Future of Arizona’s Water Resources

As a state, Arizona has succeeded where its neighbors have struggled, by planning for and protecting water resources. Arizona is prepared for growth and has the needed resources for businesses to prosper – the end result of decades of tireless work and considerable investment of both public and private resources.

But there is still work to be done. With a scarce resource like water, creative and innovative partnerships are needed to meet the future challenges of water supply development and management.

Join us on Tuesday, June 9th, to engage in this important conversation and hear more from top water professionals and our Governor.

THE HONORABLE DOUG DUCEY
Governor of the State of Arizona

Governor Doug Ducey was elected in November 2014 to serve as Arizona’s 23rd Governor. Ducey’s priorities are growing the economy, creating jobs, improving outcomes in K-12 education and balancing the budget. A champion of limited government, economic development and Arizona businesses and families, Governor Ducey has pledged to work every day to ensure “Opportunity for All.”

WELCOME REMARKS

MARK B. BONSALL
Chief Executive Officer and General Manager, Salt River Project

Mark B. Bonsall was named SRP’s Chief Executive Officer and General Manager in April 2011. As one of the nation’s largest public power utilities, SRP provides reliable, reasonably priced electricity and water to more than 2 million people in Central Arizona. Bonsall joined SRP in 1977, serving in a variety of positions since then, including Treasurer and Chief Financial Executive.
